The Auburn Unified Bowling Team had its first season this year. The team competed with other schools within their League. Unified sports is part of the Special Olympics Unified Sports model, which brings together students with and without disabilities to compete on the same team, promoting inclusion, teamwork, and mutual respect.

We are proud of the dedication shown by all team members, coaches, and supporters who helped make this inaugural season a success. The Auburn Unified Bowling team has laid a strong foundation, and we look forward to continued growth and even more opportunities for students to participate in inclusive athletics in the years to come.

Mrs. Pesarchick's Class Postcard Project at Herman Ave

By Zoe Zambito & Lakota Stinson

Our class participates in the Herman Avenue Postcard Project. We have been receiving a lot of mail from all over the world. Just recently we received postcards from Mrs. Christiantelli's reading groups at Seward Elementary. They wrote us a simple note on the back and a joke on the front. Our class read the postcards out loud and shared the jokes. It gave us a great laugh. We are so grateful to have received her package. Thank you to her students for connecting with us. We will be sure to write them back.

Lakota Stinson~ "I am so thankful for the postcards because they make my day!"

Zoe Zambito~ "We received a postcard from Australia. It was so cool to receive a card from a different continent so far away."

Makayla Guariglia~ "It is so great to receive postcards. I love reading them!"

Gabe Rathbun~ "Receiving postcards is so much fun and I like to write them back."

Liam Petrosino~ "I love getting postcards because of the questions and comments from people."

Dean Epperson~ "My grandfather replied to the postcard I sent him and it made my day."

AHS seniors, brothers each make Eagle Scout

Since its creation in 1911, only about 4 percent of Scouts have attained the rank of Eagle Scout (the highest rank in the Scouts BSA of Scouting America), which makes what Auburn High School seniors and brothers Andrew and Owen Bennett have accomplished even more special.

The duo were awarded their medals and badges at a recent ceremony. According to Scouts BSA, "requirements (for Eagle Scout) include earning at least 21 merit badges, of which 14 are mandatory. The Eagle Scout must demonstrate Scout Spirit, an ideal attitude based upon the Scout Oath and Law, service, and leadership, which includes an extensive service project that the Scout plans, organizes, leads, and manages."

"Making Eagle Scout is the culmination of years of hard work and dedication," Owen Bennett said. "To achieve the rank of Eagle requires years of work and commitment, and I feel that achieving the rank is proof of my work ethic and dedication to my community and myself."

"Eagle to me means dedication and service; it's not necessarily difficult to obtain, but takes years of commitment to achieve," Andrew Bennett said. "It shows the efforts I've put in for so many years of my life. It shows all my achievements, and I hope it can help show the leader I try to be."

Owen's community service project was to construct three raised garden beds in the back gardens of the Seward House and then plant a variety of herbs and vegetables.

"I believe that it went incredibly well, and all of the representatives from the Seward House agree," he said. "To build the gardens, I used refurbished materials from a renovation (to their carriage houses), keeping the history inside that lumber at the historical site."

Andrew's project was building a Pollinator Garden at Everest Park.

"It went great, the garden is still going strong, and I plan to continue caring for it this summer to help it further establish itself," he said.

The Bennett brothers have been involved in Scouting for years, and earning the Eagle Scout rank is the culmination of a special shared journey.

"Making Eagle with my brother is truly amazing," Owen said. "I have ascended through ranks with him and have shared many memories of scouting with him. While we were working on our projects, he helped me carry mine out, and I did the same for him. I am incredibly happy that both of us got to the rank of Eagle together, finishing the journey we travelled together."

"It means a lot to me to make it with my brother, we joined the same day, and it's really great to have made it all the way to Eagle on the same day," Andrew said. "We've always been together through scouting, and there's no one I'd rather achieve it with."

"I want to mention how grateful I am for everyone who's helped me along my journey, especially my family and troop leaders for all they've done to help me succeed."

Both Bennett brothers are ranked in the top 10 academically for the Class of 2026 with Andrew being the salutatorian. Andrew plans on majoring in engineering, and Owen will study finance and pre-law. Both play sports in the fall, winter and spring and are involved in different extracurricular activities, including multiple clubs.

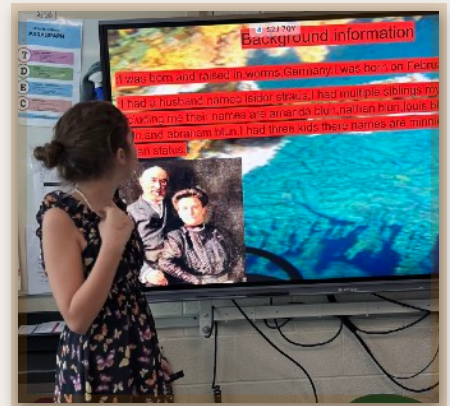

"The rank of Eagle will definitely help me down the road," Owen said. "I am incredibly proud of my achievement and hope that others will recognize the hard work behind it as I meet them. I plan on attending a four-year university next year, and hope to meet other Eagle Scouts to work and succeed with."

"Making Eagle was always the goal, so it won't change my future plans," Andrew said. "It's taught me a lot about what I want to do, but in the end, I always wanted it to come to this, so it's been a part of my plans all along."

The Titanic Passenger Project

The Casey Park 6th graders did a research project on the Titanic and presented in first person while dressing like their passenger. Students learned about the Titanic and will look at actual artifacts brought up from the depths of the Ocean for their Science lesson on Chemical and Physical changes. Shannon DelloStritto

Virtual Farm Field Trip @ Seward

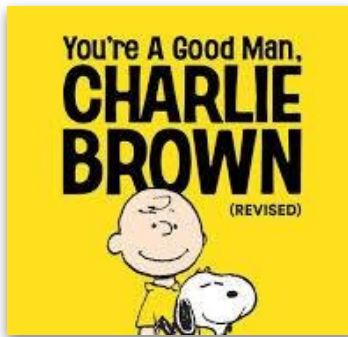

Students in Mrs. Evans' kindergarten classroom at Seward Elementary enjoyed an exciting virtual field trip with ZoomDairy from Sackets Harbor, organized by instructional coach Mrs. Falzarano. Students recently completed their Farms unit in the new Amplify curriculum, and this virtual experience served as a wonderful culminating activity to bring their learning to life. During this interactive experience, students learned all about life on a dairy farm and even had the opportunity to "adopt" a baby calf. The class proudly named their calf Biscuit! Students asked thoughtful questions, discovered how farmers care for cows, and gained a deeper understanding of where milk comes from. It was a fun and engaging way to connect our classroom learning to the real world — and we can't wait to follow Biscuit as she grows!

The Annual Auburn Junior High Musical Production

Auburn Junior High School is inviting everyone to attend this year's musical production "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown". With charm, wit and heart, You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown explores life through the eyes of Charlie Brown and his friends in the Peanuts gang. Charles Schulz's beloved comic comes to life in Clark Gesner's classic musical, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown. The whole gang is here: bossy Lucy (Teagan Littlejohn) is hopelessly in love with piano prodigy Schroeder (A'nyea Thomas) who doesn't give her the time of day, perfectionist Sally (Ruby Smithwick) is still mocking blanket-toting Linus (Tucker Padlick), Snoopy (Ava Ward) is in the doghouse, and "blockhead," himself, Charlie Brown (Atreyu Rose), is in rare form. Rounding out the cast are Ivy Anderson, Amelia Errico, Brielle Bojczuk, Leah Collisterr, Sadie Davis-Shannon, Zoey Farrell, Charlotte Lange, Aria Leubner, Dahlia

Oliver, and Arybella VanOrman. Brief vignettes span the months from Valentine's Day to Beethoven Day, from wild optimism to utter despair. Musical numbers include "My Blanket and Me," "The Kite," "The Baseball Game," "Little Known Facts," "Supper time" and "Happiness." The production is produced by Sally Reutlinger, who also designed the costumes, directed by Bill Tenity, musical director Karen Bartlett-Morse, pit director and assistant director Ruth Crissman, and choreography by Alysse Carris. Set design and construction is by Joe Sheppard and artistic painter is Dawn Jordan.

2nd Grade PBL in the Library

Students watched a short STEAM video and then created their own marble runs. They worked with a partner, using cardboard rolls, tape, paper plates and cups, scissors, and marbles. At the end of the session, students tested their marble runs in front of the whole class. They were true engineers, problem-solving and making adjustments along the way.

In Honor of Braille Day

Casey Park students in Mrs. Mitchell and Ms. Darling's kindergarten classes teamed up with their buddy classrooms in fifth grade to learn about Braille Day which is observed on January 4th. Mr. Allen and Ms. Hall's fifth grade classes worked together with kindergartners to make signs for the school for various teachers and other school staff in English and in Braille.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY & INCLUSION

- The district DEI Task Force met on February 2nd to host members of the Human Rights Commission and explore new ways to partner and support district-wide equity initiatives.
- Schools across the district celebrated Black History Month with immersive projects, including:
 - Genesee Elementary welcomed members of the NAACP to engage in community reading sessions with students.
 - Casey Park Elementary conducted a school-wide research project where each grade presented findings on influential African American historical figures during morning announcements.
- Executive Director of Special Education, Babette Valentine, and Coordinator Aliza Querns led an informative session for mentors and mentees regarding 504 plans and Individualized Education Plans (IEPs).

The REV Theatre Company performed at all the Elementary Schools

AECSD kindergarteners were recently treated to a special performance of An Itsy Bitsy Play by The REV Theatre Company, a production with a very special connection to Herman Avenue. The play was written by Lisa Chase, a talented playwright and mother of Herman Avenue kindergartener Lily Chase. This original piece reimagines the journey of Itsy Bitsy as he conquers the waterspout, highlighting essential themes of resilience, determination, and courage.

It was an inspiring experience for our students to see a story brought to life by one of our own school families. Special thanks to Lisa Chase and The REV for sharing this message of perseverance with our youngest learners!

Tonie Library System

There's something powerful about a child getting lost in a story. Through a grant request submitted by Laura Falzarano and supported by AEF, Tonieboxes are creating moments of calm, connection, and imagination across many Seward Elementary classrooms. We're honored to support tools that nurture the whole child. Teachers, keep bringing your ideas! AEF is here to help them grow.

Together, we spark meaningful learning.

Creating 3D HISTORIC STRUCTURES

Fifth graders in Mrs. Duffy's and Miss Iversen's classes spent time learning about the ancient civilizations of the Aztecs, Incas, and Mayans. At the end of the unit, students briefly researched a temple originally built by one of the three civilizations before creating their own digital representations of these historic structures. With the help of Genesee's Librarian, Mrs. Calaraco, all students had their magnificent structures brought to life through 3D printing, allowing them to have a physical representation of their technological skills and creativity.

Rocks, Fossils and Dinosaur Bones

Casey Park fourth graders recently enjoyed a virtual visit from Mrs. Och's cousin, Joshua Payne, a geologist from Romulus, NY. He shared stories from his work in Alaska, Utah, Texas, Hawaii, and at Mount St. Helens, and taught students about different types of rocks and fossils he has discovered, including a dinosaur bone about the size of a human arm!

Students asked great questions, including what inspired him to become a geologist. He explained that his love of rocks and fossils led him to pursue this exciting career. They also enjoyed seeing videos of erupting volcanoes in Hawaii and photos of Mount St. Helens today.

“I Have a Dream”

Every February, the Auburn Enlarged City School District celebrates Black History Month with different lessons, events, and displays throughout its seven buildings.

A special event was held at Seward Elementary School. Longtime district employee Leslie Walker spoke to sixth graders about her experience attending Dr. Martin Luther King Jr’s “I Have a Dream” speech in Washington, DC in August 1963 when she was 12 years old.

Walker, the daughter of a reverend who grew up in the South, talked about the impact the speech had on her life as she came of age in the Civil Rights era.

Walker also said she’s a great-great-niece of Harriet Tubman and answered students’ questions about attending the speech and her life.

Another special event was when Auburn-Cayuga NAACP members visited Genesee Elementary School to read books about Black history to students as part of National African-American Parent Involvement Day.

At Auburn High School, activities on Black history were planned in social studies classes. Biographies of influential African Americans were read during Auburn Junior High School morning announcements. Students learned more information in their history classes.

In Casey Park Elementary history classes, students in all grades were assigned a historical figure to create a presentation and video. Those will be shown at the end of the month. Casey Park also had a display in the school lobby. Herman Avenue Elementary featured a big display of Black history in the hallway. Owasco Elementary also had a display, in addition to morning announcements, that gave information on historical Black figures.

Whether it’s presentations or displays, Auburn students have a variety of ways to learn more about Black history.
