"The Big Hoot"

October 2022

Mrs. Chadderdon's third graders show their excitement after finding out they can sit with their friends at lunch this year!

Janae and Khloe wearing what they bought at Ms. Aversa's Hoot Loot Kindness Shop!

After reading Lebron James' book, "I promise," Mrs. Chadderdon's third graders worked together to brainstorm ways to make their classroom a great place to learn. Students then collectively decided on the "Big 3" that they pledge to do each and every school day. Be Kind • Be Safe • Be Respectful

Here are a couple pictures from Mrs. Murphy/Ms. Genkos classroom of Stella and Arden sharing their Mercy Watson library books with the class. They were so brave to read for their classmates and did such a great job! Afterward, the kids shared compliments with them! It was adorable!

Naomi Hernandez and Joseph Plis using the apple peeler/slicer/corer to make applesauce in Ms. West and Mrs. Corey's room, during a fun filled lesson about apples!

Here are some pictures of my favorite writing piece that I do at the beginning of each year with my students. It is a family favorite project. The students pick what they personally think is "the best part of them" and reflect on the reasons why.
~ Ms. Buckley, 4th Grade

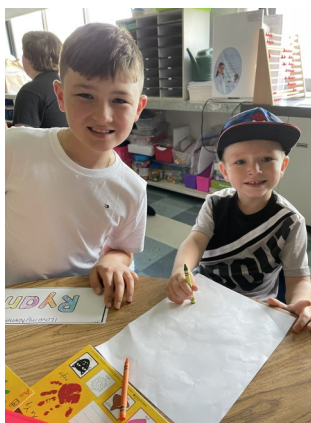

Students in Ms. Bouley's Kindergarten class had a Popcorn Kindness Party! Students are working hard to show kindness daily!

Ms Stoker's 2nd graders and Mrs Gabak's 5th graders came together to build pumpkin candy structures. At the end, a 5th grader read to the whole group. Buddy classes encourage building community, creating relationships and modeling positive behavior.

Mrs. Roberts' fifth graders learned interesting ideas and facts about each other's names, in our morning community circle. This helped our brainstorming for our upcoming Personal Narrative Writing Assessment. Mrs Roberts' and Mrs. Tabone's (K) classrooms connected through, Chrysanthemum, a book by author Kevin Henke. The fifth graders guided the Kindergartners to color and identify the letters in their name. They can't wait to see each other again next week!
